I agree they make more money than what they deserve, because they make movies, music, play sports, model. To me that's a lot of hard work to do when they have to get up a certain time or leave a certain amount of time. I mean that's really hard on someone. But people may have other thoughts or opinions but only think of my own. Well think about it. If you were a star and you worked a certain amount of time, would you want to get paid more than what you're getting paid more than you already have? It's common sense people. People who disagree should try to get famous and see how they like it. And they might change their mind and believe you. Me, they wouldn't want to go back to their regular lives. This response is considered flawed. A low degree of proficiency in persuasive writing skills is reflected. The writer's position seems to be that celebrities deserve the money they make despite the contradictory introduction. The writer's use of rhetorical questions adds voice to the response. However, there is very little development of the key ideas and the response is weakly organized. In addition, there are serious errors in writing conventions.
